LEMON GROVE Continues to be the Fastest Growing City in Southern California

Vol. 4, No. 22 | LEMON GROVE, CALIFORNIA, THURSDAY, JANUARY 24, 1952 | 5c PER COPY

Lemon Grove Leads All County Areas In Building Again

Fringe Area Growth Tops Rest of County

Residential development in unincorporated "fringe areas" of San Diego continued heavy last year, in spite of materials controls, the shortage of mortgage money and the objection of the city against extending sewer lines and other municipal services to sections outside city limits.

This was disclosed last week in the annual report of the county's Building Inspection Division, giving a district breakdown of construction volume for the year.

The area around La Mesa, although failing to match the 1950 pace, still accounted for approximately one third of construction undertaken in the entire unincorporated area of San Diego County.

In this general section, including Lemon Grove, Helix and Grossmont, builders stated 1103 dwelling units last year and other construction for a total dollar volume of $12,153,900. In the whole county, the housing count and all construction valued at $35,136,115.

Lemon Grove Leads

Lemon Grove, as it has ever since the war ended, was the top single district, with 761 dwelling units and all building totaling $7,841,952. The previous year Lemon Grove built 1158 dwelling units and recorded a construction valuation of $9,148,167.

The adjoining Helix-Grossmont district was second, with 347 dwelling units last year and all building valued at $4,311,948 compared with the 1950 mark of 655 dwelling units and over-all construction of $5,365,236.

Vista, in the Northern end of the county, was the third ranking area with all constuction valued at $2,199,903, although Vista's housing starts, 199, were below the rural El Cajon vicinity with 214 dwelling units. The value of all construction in unincorporated area around El Cajon was $2,065,645, just under the Vista total.

South Bay also was among the county leaders, with a construction total of $1,912,181, including 112 dwelling units.

Although failing to match the pace of the five leading districts in the county, the greatest percentage gains in construction were shown in Del Mar, Lakeside and Rancho Santa Fe.

Del Mar recorded a building total of $1,191,995, with 68 dwelling units, compared to $845,549 and 44 houses in 1950.

The gain in Lakeside was even more sharp, $352,414 last year compared with $85,241 in 1950, the jump being attributed largely to school construction.

In Rancho Santa Fe, 38 new houses were started and all building was valued at $603,062, compared with 24 houses and a valuation of $420,281 in the preceding 12 months.

High School Welfare Depends Upon the Vote Cast Tuesday

Voters of the Grossmont district will decide at the polls Tuesday whether Grossmont and Helix High schools will continue to offer an equal educational opportunity to their students

Growth, decreased state revenue, and inflation have created a financial crisis which has forced the board of trustees to call a special school election to maintain the educational program.

The proposition to be decided is: "Shall the maximum tax rate be increased by 60c for a period of five years beginning in 1952-53?"

The election, according to Dist. Supt. Lewis F. Smith, has been called only after a long struggle to maintain the educational program in the face of financial problems. The action was preceded by a study of the situation by a Citizens' Advisory Committee representing more than 70 community organizations. The committee recommended the calling of the election.

Where to Vote

Twenty one school election precincts are listed for the Grossmont Union High School Special School election on January 29. Pol's will be open from 7:00 a. m. to 7:00 p. m. It is hoped that all qualified citizens and parents will study the problem and vote.

The school election precincts are the same as last year. The school precinct is determined by residence within an elementary school district and the general election precinct. For further information phone H 6-4105.

For transportation to the polls, phone M 6-4155.

Voters living in Lemon Grove No. 1, portion of Radio No. 1 and all of Radio No. 2 vote at Vista La Mesa School, 7101 Pearson.

Voters in Lemon Grove Nos. 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9and 13 vote at Lemon Grove School, 3021 School Lane.

Voters in Lemon Grove Nos. 10, 11 and 12, vote at Monterey Heights School, 7550 Canton.

Lions Club Sponsors Scrap Drive Saturday

The Lions Club is sponsoring a scrap metal drive on Saturday, the entire proceeds of which will go to Lemon Grove School Band for uniforms and instruments.

Scrap metal may be left at the southeast corner of Broadway and New Jersey.

If you desire pickup call H 6-0198, H 6-0471, or H6-9048.

TO UNDERGO SURGERY

G. R. Graham, who has been ill the past three weeks with an ear infection and complications, will return to Paradise Valley Hospital Saturday afternoon to undergo surgery Sunday morning.

State Federation President To Be Here

The State President of the California Federation of Women's Clubs, Mrs. Amer C. Stolp of Durham, will be guest of honor at the San Diego County Federation Board meeting, Saturday, February 2, at Lemon Grove, the Lemon Grove Woman's club acting as hostess.

The meeting will be held at the club house, 2810 Main street and called to order by the county president, Mrs. Edna May Martin, at 10 a. m. Pledge of Allegiance to the flag led by Mrs. Elizabeth Parsons; hostess greetings by Mrs. Irving Vernier, response, Mrs. E. A. Walter; meditation, Mrs. R. L. Gardner.

The following chairmen will present their reports: Motion Pictures, Mrs. F. D. Fales; Conservation and Natural Resources, Mrs. Alice Blanc; International Relations, Mrs. Charles Stolz; Junior Clubs, Mrs. Denny Wood; Co-ordinating Councils, Mrs. C. T. Mann; House Committee for the Blind, Mrs. Fred Quaid.

Mrs. John Metzger will present Miss Margaret Butler, vocal soloist, and Eugene Barnette Price, piano soloist. Luncheon will be served by the hostess club.

Mrs. Stolp will address the afternoon session; her subject "Vision Unlimited."

Bloodmobile Here Saturday

Saturday is Blood Bank day in Lemon Grove when citizens will have an opportunity to give of their blood for men on the fighting front or for the wounded.

The Bloodmobile will be at Community Center from 2 to 7 p. m. to receive the donations.

Call Mrs. Al Huelsen, H 6-8276 for further information.

The attainment by San Diego County of a leading position in the United States in recruiting blood for the sick and wounded of the armed forces was reported by O. W. Todd, Jr., chairman of the blood procurement program for the Red Cross of San Diego County.

In the last six months, 13,493 pints of blood were obtained against a quota of 12,000 set by the Defense Department. The period ran July1 to January 1.

"I wish to express thanks to the many people whose work made it possible for us to go over the top in this vital program," Todd said. "The community response to the efforts of the volunteers and committee chairmen to obtain blood donations for our fighting men was tremendous. The operators of the Bloodmobile, the Red Cross volunteers, and above all those who gave blood deserve special praise for their untiring efforts which made this possible in the last six months."

Concert Association Presents Carolers in Third Concert

Grossmont Community Concert Association will present the Carolers as the third concert of the season in Grossmont Auditorium, Saturday, at 8:15 p. m.

This singing group appears here in the course of its second successful tour of the country. The five singers have done recital work of their own and all have been soloists with Fred Waring on radio and television. Since the formation of the Carolers in the summer of 1950, the group has been heard on NBC nationwide broadcasts, in recital in New York, and now is establishing a national reputation on the concert stage.

Soprano Penny Perry comes from Minneapolis where she started out as a staff radio singer at sixteen. For two years she was featured soloist on "Chicago Theatre of the Air" singing grand opera as well as operetta, including such roles as Micaela and Musetta.

Baritone Jonathan Wilson began singing as a choir boy in Mansfield, Ohio. His four years in the U. S. Navy included a

Make Reservations Now for Annual C of C Banuet

Mr. and Mrs. J. Warden Hutton, of San Diego, who play many musical instruments, will be the strolling musicians at the annual Community banquet, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce at 7 p. m. Wednesday, January 30.

Stanley B. Grove, general manager of the San Diego Chamber of Commerce for about six years, will speak on "How the Chamber of Commerce Can Aid the Community."

All residents of Lemon Grove are invited to attend this banquet. This would be a splendid opportunity for newcomers to get acquainted with the work of the Chamber.

Reservations must be made by purchase of tickets by the end of this week at First National Bank, with Chamber directors, or by calling H 6-3345.

Male Choral Group Sings for Churches Hospitals and Others

One of the new musical organizations of this area is the Eddie Ricca Male Choral Group. The outgrowth of a local group of fine male voices, there are now nearly 20 singers being trained by Eddie Ricca of San Diego.

Marcebilla Volz, one of the Valley's finest musicians, it the accomponist, and Mrs. Claire Sharpe Cook is a special soloist.

The group has had the pleasure of singing in some of the Catholic Churches having no choirs. They have sung at St. Jude's Shrine, St. Martins of La Mesa and in St. John of the Cross. They have given much joy to residents and guests of the Little Flower Haven of La Mesa, besides giving sacred concerts.

They will sing Mass at the dedication of the new Alpine Church.

The chorus will sing in one of the lovely patios at the Balboa Naval Hospital when nonambulating patients from five wards will be taken to the patio to hear the concert.

Arrangements have also been made for sacred programs and to sing Mass on some of the battleships.

Included in the group are Edd Ricca, Jerry Walter, Joe Pare, Dolan Stecher, George Zellmer, Bob Jones.

Ed Chaffee, Bill Vandenburg, Jas. Dougherty, Gabriel Herrara, Jr., Jim O'Reilly.

Ray Deters, Don Jefferds, Bill Thornton, Frank Jonas, W. W. Hawkins, Jim Martin and Paul Volz.

Larry Little Writes From Dhahran, Saudia Arabia

The following letter was received by Mr. and Mrs. George Schlatterer, 3031 Imperial, from Larry Little, in Arabia:

Dhahran, Saudi Arabia
January 1, 1952

Dear folks:

Here I am in Arabia; from this air base we can only obtain U. S. postage stamps and in order to send Nancy a letter with native stamps on it I'll have to obtain them when I go to the town, Elcobar, or the Island of Bahrien.

The natives do very little letter writing and usually have their letters written for them by a person who has some experience in letter writing and charges a small fee. The letters usually are sent by a person who is going that direction via camel train and will either take it directly to the addressee or entrust it to some other person whose errand or trip takes him nearer to the point of delivery. This system requires no stamp and is very slow.

The meager postal system within the country is almost as slow and often unable to locate the addressee, in which case the postal department reads the letter, and in case of it being a death notice, properly cries and mourns after which it is considered the mission fulfilled.

These people have other forms of efficiency also; three of us fellows visited a town called Qatif, we call it Kathief which more readily explains everything after having been through it.

We saw a sort of sawmill working. It was composed of two Arabs, a fairly high bench and a saw resembling a loggers crosscut with handle at each end. One Arab lay under the bench and the other squatted upon it astride one piece of 2"x12" about 16 feet long which they were endeavoring to rip into two pieces of 1"x12" by 16 ft. long. The Arab above pulled the saw up and the one below, pulled it down, the 2x12 was very clearly scribed down the exact center of both edges, and it was amazing the accuracy which was maintained. There happened to be one ripping job completed, which was similar to the one in progress, we examined the cut made through such a long and tiresome procedure and were more or less suprised at the smoothness of the cut.

Here our good old U. S. automobile being the most desired and respected implements of travel, seemed to have the up-

Everyone Helps With March of Dimes

One more week of the March of Dimes finds the chairmen, Tom Warburton and Rev. John Chandler with a full program planned for the final week of the campaign.

Saturday will find everyone making a big effort to fill the big water bottles in the two drug stores and in Harry Monell's market with dimes and other coins.

The snappy Helix High Band will be at Main and Broadway at 11:30 a. m. Saturday to give zest and pep to the occasion.

Several talent acts by Helix High Players will add to the attraction.

And don't forget—next Thursday night, January 31, young folks will have a porch light parade, answering your door for donations for March of Dimes—if—you have your porch light turned on.

The need is great for money to keep the Polio Foundation active. You never know when one of your loved ones may need help. Polio is no respector of persons. Help stamp it out with money for research and more clines.

Help the March of Dimes.

Mrs. L. D. Newton Re-elected President of Republican Women

The Lemon Grove Women's Republican Club greeted Mrs. Kathryn T. Niehouse, State Assemblywoman from San Diego County, at a 12:30 p. m. luncheon in Friendship Hall, Monday. Following the luncheon, Mrs. L. D. Newton, president, conducted business and election of officers resulted in the return to office of Mrs. L. D. Newton, president, Mrs. J. E. Sonka, vice president; Mrs. Milton Kelly, recording secretary; Mrs. Del Fernald, treasurer.

Mrs. Niehouse, who was guest speaker, introduced her old friend, Mrs. Mort Thompson, president of Brooklyn Heights Minute Women, and former member of the Republican Central Committee. Mrs. Thompson contributed much salty humor to the occasion and made some wise suggestions.

Mrs. Niehouse described the exciting career of an assemblywoman and told of the handling of various bills affecting San Diego County. The Joint Tenancy law, in which considerable interest was shown, was promised a bill for its return to former status—permissive rather than mandatory.

An attendance of 42 women and a growing enthusiasm resulted in the engagement of Friendship Hall for another luncheon meeting on February 18. A speaker will address the club, and you are invited to make your reservation with an officer of the club.

Kiwanis Board Endorses Tax Raise

The following motion was made and passed at the Executive Board meeting of the Lemon Grove Kiwanis Club on Wednesday: "Whereas the educational program of the Grossmont Union High School District is to be drastically curtailed unless increased local support is made available to combat inflation, growth and decreased State support, we, the executive board of the Lemon Grove Kiwanis Club, urge a "yes" vote of the proposal to be submitted for increase in the maximum tax rate to the voters on Tuesday, January 29."

Chan Mason, Byron Netzley, Tom Warburton, Ray Carmody, Dewey Carmody and Bob Browne attended a Kiwanis conference at Borego Hot Springs Saturday.

Chan Mason, president and Dr. J. C. W. White, secretary, are attending a Presidents' and Secretaries' workshop of Kiwanis at Bakersfied this week end.

Art Slocum, Insurance, is the newest member in the Kiwanis Club.

Honor Mrs. Roy Close for 20 Year of Camp Fire Work

Mrs. Roy B. Close, who has probably trained more Camp Fire Girls and workers than any other person in the valley, was awarded the National Wakan Service Award last Tuesday evening at the annual Council dinner in San Diego Womans Club house.

This award culminates 20 years of volunteer service as a Camp Fire leader and of seeking out and training adults to become leaders of young girls, training them to be responsible and useful citizens and her other many devotions to the community. Mrs. Close is not only highly esteemed by a large group of older residents, but has the admiration and love of a host of young folks.

Dr. Cornelius Cunningham, of State College, was after-dinner speaker. Others attending from Lemon Grove were Mr. and Mrs. John Dail, Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Carr, Mrs. Burton Snyder and Miss Eldora De Mots.

Warn All Hunters To Observe All Trespass Signs

All hunters are urged by W. A. Rigley not to hunt in the woods or on ranches in the Jamul area. Many ranchers there have lost cattle and other animals by being hit with stray bullets.

There has also been so much destruction by trespassers that signs have been erected warning against trespassers.

On one ranch an old landmark, a palm tree 200 years old, was destroyed. Constable Rigley reported that Richard J. Halferty, businessman from Chula Vista, was brought into Homeland Justice Court last week to face prosecution for trespassing on the George Daley ranch. He received a fine of $50 after admitting that he entered the land close to a "No Trespassing" sign.

Reciprocity Tea at Woman's Club

The Lemon Grove Woman's Club is receiving at its annual Reciprocity tea and program tomorrow (Friday) at 1:30 p. m. in the clubhouse. Mrs. H. Irving Vernier, president, will welcome guests, and Mrs. R. I Seder, program chairman, will present Mrs. Laurence E. Leach, music chairman, in a piano solo, "Prelude Dramatique," by Albert Ketelbey.

Irene O'Connor, director of drama, will offer an original skit: "The Unbored Meeting," a satire on a woman's club board meeting. The cast will include Beverley Hentigan, Mary Patterson, Roxie Stewart, Millicent Bowers and Irene O'Connor.

Hostesses at the tea hour will be: Mrs. J. E. Sonka, Mrs. A. C. Bourquin, Mrs. Roxie Stewart, Mrs. Robert Castiglia, Mrs. George B. Loveday.

Book Section II will meet with Mrs. A. R. Rettke, 3294 Vista Street, at 2:00 p. m., January 18. Mrs. J. E. Butler will review "The Long, Long Trailer," by Clinton Twiss.

M. H. Girl Scouts Aid March of Dimes

The Brownie and Intermediate Scouts of Monterey Heights will be on hand Saturday to help La Mesa with its March of Dimes from 12 noon to 1:00 p. m.

Troops participating are No. 248, fourth grade, Mrs. Raymond Johnson leader, No. 375 fourth grade, Mrs. A. I. Hines. Troops No. 334 and 335, third grade Brownies, leaders Mrs. Arthur Taylor and Mrs. R. A. Jones. No. 2 and No. 374, fifth grade troops, leaders, Mrs. Guy Winton and Mrs. Ben Vestal. Troop No. 587, 6th grade, Mrs. L. W. Kernes, leader.

MOVE INTO NEW HOME

Lieut. and Mrs. O. F. Reese and son Douglas moved into their new home at 8150 Lincoln last Saturday. They have three bedrooms bath and a half and large rooms with all of the modern conveniences. The lieutenant has been on leave but will leave on January 31 via transport from San Francisco to serve on the Philippine Sea stationed in Korean waters.

How Shall We Meet This Threat

"Annex, incorporate, or else"—is the threat held over the unincorporated communities of California by the League of Municipalities.

Tax subsidies to unincorpated communities can only be stopped by requiring them to become municipal, the board of directors of the League declared at a meeting at the Los Angeles Biltmore last week.

This is a genuine threat to a progressive community like Lemon Grove, which has provided its own fire protection and sanitation district.

There is very little that the county furnishes that we do not pay for directly. The County building department should pay its own way in fees received for building permits.

The sheriff's office and the justice of peace are naturally county functions.

The threat to the unincorporated communities comes from the fact that the League proposes a bill to be introduced into the next session of the legislature requiring communities, when they reach a certain size in population, to either incorporate as municipalities, or annex to the nearest city.

Unincorporated communities should band together now to fight this serious threat to the rights of the people to live as they desire.

California has numerous large unincorporated communities, particularly in Los Angeles and San Diego Counties, and it is in these communities that the fight to head off such legislation should be spearheaded.

Don Lowery Given Honor Award

A letter was received this week by Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lowry, 3780 Massachusetts from their son Don who has been on front lines near Chowan, Korea, for the past five months saying he had been transferred to Division Honor Guard.

This to use his words is mostly "Spit and Polish" with a few hours guard duty, but they have three fine hot meals a day and can attend movies every night if not on guard duty and the best part was "the chinks arent shooting at you."

Don writes they had a wonderful Christmas dinner but it was covered with snow before they could eat all of it.

Thanksgiving was quite different. They relieved other troops for their dinner and his group had cold rations for dinner and 300 rounds of chink artillery for supper.

They spent the night in cold wet foxholes for it was snowing, but the next morning sun came out, warmed them up and they were sent down hill to a wonderful day-late Thanksgiving dinner.

Don was one of a small group given a Presidential citation for holding a hill when all other groups fell back.

Mrs. Marcus Borlin Heads Altar Society

Mrs. Marcus Borlin was installed as president of the Altar Society of St. John of the Cross recently.

Others installed by Mrs. E. S. Katnick were Mrs. F. C. Alexander, vice president; Mrs. Leslie Roberts, secretary and treasurer.

The meeting date was changed to the Thursday preceding the first Friday of the month, which brings the next meeting on January 31.

A bake sale was planned.

SCOUTERS' WORKSHOP

All Scouters are urged to attend a Girl Scout workshop on Monday, February 4, from 9:30 a. m. to 2:30 p. m. at La Mesa United Presbyterian Church, Sanford and Harrison. Badge work will be stressed. Bring a sack lunch and child care will be provided.

SCANNING THE WEEK'S NEWS
of Main Street and the World

Eisenhower's Political Statement Causes Stir in Republican Circles

POLITICS—Gen. Dwight Eisenhower has made a statement that many political observers say clarifies his political intentions. It has also caused a great stir in Republican circles. The general said, in effect, that he would not make any pre-convention fight for the GOP presidential nomination. He added, however, that he has always been a Republican and that he would probably accept a clear cut call to political leadership which is the duty of every American.

Eisenhower's statement was made after he was put on something of a spot during a recent news conference by Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, during which the senator announced he was placing the general's name on the New Hampshire Republican ballot.

GENERAL EISENHOWER

Before Lodge's news conference, Eisenhower had repeatedly refused to make any comment on his political aspirations. By continued silence, he would have let it be known, in a negative manner, that he was willing to take the Republican nomination. While his statement was not as clear as some would have liked, it was noted that the general did not request his name held off the New Hampshire ballot. Eisenhower has assumed a unique, if somewhat confusing, position in American politics in the eyes of the average home town voter.

Almost as startling as Senator Lodge's maneuvering and Eisenhower's statement, was the announcement by The New York Times, one of America's oldest and most influencial newspapers, that it would support the general "enthusiastically" if he becomes a candidate for President. The newspaper has supported GOP presidential candidates only twice in the past 20 years.

Said The Times in a lead editorial: "We have given our support on those occasions to the Democratic candidate essentially because we were reluctant to trust the Republican party on issues of foreign policy and because we believe these issues to be the decisive issues of the campaign, towering high above all domestic issues—for the clear and sufficient reason that without a sound and courageous foreign policy the safety, the prosperity, even the very independence of this nation would be endangered.

"In General Eisenhower we have a man who shares this conviction. We are confident that he would be able to lead even the laggards among his fellow Republicans away from isolation and toward world responsibility."

KOREA—The Korean peace talks settled down to a series of name calling, bitterness, and increasing suspicion. Although some progress has been made toward peace during the long months of talking, it is becoming more evident that a final and lasting peace can not be secured in such an atmosphere.

The Russians, meanwhile, indicated they wanted a greater voice in the talks to settle a war they don't even recognize, by asking for a meeting of the United Nations security council to consider the armistice negotiations. The proposal was rejected at once by the United States, Great Britain and France. American officials said such a session—where Russia has a veto—would worsen the prospect of peace in Korea by bringing political issues into the negotiations.

ECONOMY—Charles E. Wilson, director of defense mobilization, has predicted a severe pinch in civilian goods for the first three months of this year. The prediction was made in Wilson's annual report of rearmament under the national emergency program.

He predicted: (1) Materials for consumer goods in general in the first three months of 1952 are sharply reduced from the levels of the first quarter of 1951. On the basis of present calculations the second quarter allotments will be even tighter; (2) Requirements of the military and atomic-energy programs for most materials will either continue at the same levels throughout 1952 or rise slightly; (3) After military and atomic-energy needs are met in such strategic materials as steel, aluminum, and copper, the material remaining will be divided between industrial expansion, consumer goods, public services, limited export requirements, and stockpiling.

As for the past year, Wilson termed it one of great progress, but said more could have been accomplished.

CHURCHILL—Winston Churchill, who will go down in history as one of the great men of our times, arrived in the United States for a series of huddles with President Truman and top military brass. Mr. Churchill's agenda was almost as magnificent as his personal appearance. It included everything from economic aid to plans for joint defense of the west.

WINSTON CHURCHILL

The key to the talks was quickly revealed when President Truman met the 77-year-old Prime Minister at Washington airport. Said the President: "I can't tell you when I have had more pleasure than I have this morning in welcoming you as a visitor to the United States of America." Replied Mr. Churchill, with the force and clarity of the Roosevelt days: "We have only to go along together, each doing loyally his best to understand the other's point of view . . . and we shall find ourselves safe at the end of the road."

There followed a series of meetings between the President and Mr. Churchill, and Mr. Churchill and top military brass. The complete results of these talks may not be known for years, but it is evident they have resulted in closer cooperation between the two countries. Churchill, no doubt, has received assurances of economical help so badly needed by Great Britain. Whether or not Britain will join in the European defense army with greater enthusiasm than previously indicated has not been announced. Most observers believed that was one of the Prime Minister's bargaining points.

SCANDALS—The second session of the 82nd congress had been in session just a few hours when it became evident the nation is in for more months of spectacular investigation.

In the senate and house there were committees and subcommittees in every corner screaming for more investigations of corruption in high places, income tax frauds, murder, and underworld activities. It was evident, too, that there would be more investigations of Communists in government and defense industries.

Meanwhile, Attorney General J. Howard McGrath continues his new offensive against organized crime in the nation. McGrath's drive started after Treasury department agents swooped down on suspected narcotic offenders and arrested more than 500 persons.

It was evident the two drives were a part of the administration's announced plan to clean up crime and graft. But in the eyes of most some towners, the administration's campaign is a little like locking the barn door after the horse has been stolen.

FARM ELECTION STRATEGY

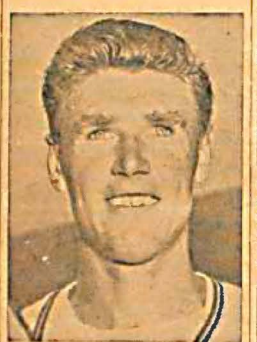
Democrats May Stand Pat on Farm Policy

According to reports circulating around Washington, the administration is unlikely to change its farm policy in the face of the approaching presidential campaign. Like strategy, observers are reporting, will be to concentrate on the claim that a Republican victory in 1952 would endanger existing benefits of the farm program, and sidetracking any controversial issues that might arise.

Democratic advisors point out that the plan worked well in 1944 and 1948. In 1949 the administration pushed the Brannan plan which would have made much greater use of federal subsidies to maintain agricultural prosperity. National farm organizations put up stiff resistance to the plan and it failed to get approval of the congress.

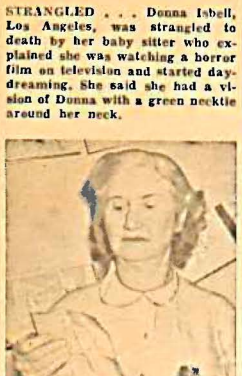
CLAIMS CANCER CURE . . . Dr. Calar Jelles Festi, Rome, announces that she has isolated cancer virus, found a test and developed a specific cure. She claims to have cured 80 patients successfully after 24 years of experiment and study.

LITVINOV DEAD . . . Maxim Litvinov, last of the "old Bolsheviks" (except Stalin), is dead at 75. He was Russia's first ambassador to the U.S. after the recognition and was regarded as the guiding light of the recognition.

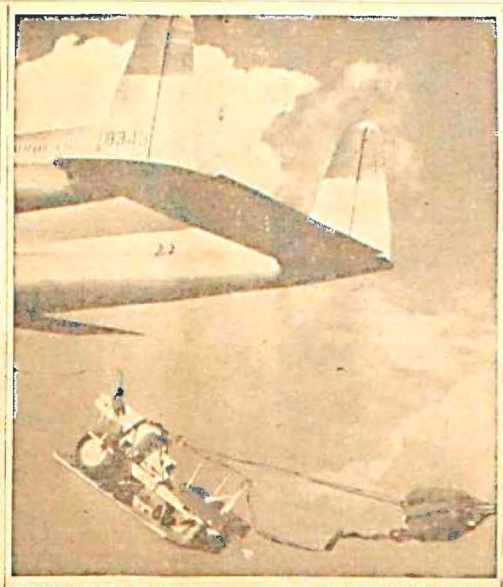


CRUSHES U.S. . . . Frank Sedgman (above) grins with victory after he beat Ted Schroeder in the opening singles of th Davis Cup challenge round in Sydney, Australia. Sedgman represents Australia; Schroeder the United States of America.

STRANGLED . . . Donna Isbell, Los Angeles, was strangled to death by her baby sitter who explained she was watching a horror film on television and started daydreaming. She said she had a vision of Donna with a green necktie areound her neck.



AGONY AT SEA . . . Mrs. Belva Hall, Norfolk, reads note tossed in sea, in bottle in 1942: "This is the end . . . middle of nowhere . . . Lost compass . . . God, O help us . . . Goodbye to our loved ones . . . Thomas Gowan EM2."



PLANE DROPS HOWITZER . . . United Nations ground forces in Korea which find themselves in a tight spot can request delivery by air of practically any weapon they might need. Here is a 105MM howitzer being released from a C-119 flying boxcar. Attached to three 100-foot parachutes the 5,000-pound artillery weapon will be gently lowered to the earth where the United Nations troops calling for it will be waiting to put it to use against the Chinese Red forces they face.

DEATH IN A SAFETY BELT . . . The body of a stewardess of the big airliner that crashed near Salamanca, N.Y., recently hangs from her safety belt, still fastened in the wreckage of the plane. She was one of the 26 persons who died in the crash of the big air transport. The back of her seat is resting on her back. Fourteen persons survived the crash of the aircraft, the cause of which is now being investigated.

NIEMOELLER GOES TO MOSCOW . . . The Rev. Martin Niemoeller (right), with daughter Herta and Prior Heinrich Gruber, arrives in Berlin en route to Moscow where he was greeted by Archbishop MaCary on behalf of the Russians. There is speculation that his visit may have some bearing on the expectation that the Russians may start releasing a large number of Germans held in the Soviet for various reasons since the end of the war. His wife and daughter went with him.

GUARDIANS OF CAPITAL . . . The U.S. air force has disclosed that the famed "white house" squadron at Washington, D.C., assigned to air defense of the nation's capital, has been equipped with Lockheed F-94 all-weather jet fighters. The planes can operate around the clock in darkness and bad weather, using radar to find their targets at night or in the clouds. Afterburning in their jet engines gives them extra power for combat maneuvers or for faster climbing.

THE WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

A New Low

PRESIDENT Truman's relations with reporters at the White House are at an all-time low.

The boys in the White House press room, usually among his stanchest friends, resent the frequent cracks President has been making about the press generally. And they don't appreciate the bawling out they get when asking simple questions at the White House news conferences.

It didn't get into the papers, but Mr. Truman, who returned from Key West tired and crochety, almost took two more digs at the reporters recently. First, he wanted to lecture them for not emphasizing that the list of war prisoners put out by the Chinese Communists was unverified and thus probably inaccurate—something, incidentally, that all reporters already had stressed.

He also wanted to bawl them out for leaking the story that Judge Tom Murphy of New York had turned down the job of chief graft investigator. However, the President's press officers, led by able Joe Short, convinced Mr. Truman to forget about it.

Inside Hungary

Final decision to pay the ransom of the four U.S. fliers in Hungary was made only after significant back-stage debate which goes to the very root of American policy toward Russian satellites.

Inside fact is that the Defense department, not the State department, made the decision to put up the ransom money—for two reasons:

1. The four air force men were official representatives of the United States and specifically of the Defense department.

2. The joint chiefs of staff shied away from any threat of retaliation for fear Hungary might call our bluff.

This latter point gets down to the root problem of whether it is wise to provoke the Soviet. It has come up time after time in the past, and the joint chiefs of staff always shy away from any showdown. In general, so does the State department.

This was the issue involved in the question of bombing Manchurian territory beyond the Yalu river. It has also been involved in much milder matters in the cold war.

Propaganda Balloons

For instance, when this columnist last spring urged sending propaganda balloons behind the Iron Curtain, it was frowned on by military advisers and by some State department officials. They feared a violent reaction in Moscow.

But when the Crusade for Freedom was able to float balloons into Czechoslovakia and Poland, the freedom leaflets were mimeographed, tacked on telephone poles, mailed anonymously to Communist officials, and created such a furor that Communist newspapers, the Czech prime minister and Radio Moscow had to go into high gear to reply.

Public opinion became so riled inside Czechoslovakia that the Communists actually began looking for some way to free AP correspondent William Oatis in order to turn off the heat.

However, when similar balloon or propaganda projects have been urged for Hungary and other satellite countries, an official wall of discouragement has been erected by the pentagon and by some of the more timid souls in the State department.

The reason is partly illustrated by a story told by Gen. Bedell Smith, expert head of central intelligence, who recounts a conversation between Georges Dimitrov and Stalin.

"Are you afraid of war?" Stalin was asked.

"Yes," replied Stalin, "but not as afraid as the West."

Nevertheless, there are plenty of propaganda steps that can be taken with no danger of war. Furthermore, it remains a fact that the law of the jungle remains the law of the Kremlin. And when U.S. propaganda stirs the population of Czechoslovakia or Hungary to a boiling point, the Kremlin is much more likely to act with reason.

Military Playground

When senate investigators probed Army camps recently, they didn't seem to notice that, while Fort Belvoir, Va., has squandered thousands of dollars on fancy golf courses, it has let its living quarters run down shamefully.

The senate preparedness committee did rap Fort Belvoir for its "luxurious" recreational facilities. But it overlooked the condition of the crowded temporary barracks which have become fire hazards. Meanwhile Fort Belvoir is dangerously low on water for fire control.

In other words, Fort Belvoir has neglected its basic needs in order to build a Potomac boat club, skeet range, two golf courses, 24 bowling alleys, two field houses, two baseball fields, 11 softball fields, seven swimming pools, 10 tennis courts and two riverside picnic areas.

New Hazard for Dogs Found in Chemicals

It's getting to the place where city dogs just live a dog's life these days.

On top of such routine hazards as speeding motorist and dog impounders, man's best friend now has another problem to contend with.

That's the danger of winter poisoning from toxic chemicals that are used to melt snow and ice from streets and sidewalks.

These chemicals may irritate the dog's paws. Then when the dog licks the irritated areas, it may swallow enough of the chemical to cause a digestive upset.

Effective Cough Syrup, Mixed at Home for Economy

No Cooking. No Work. Real Saving.

Here's an old home mixture your mother probably used, and is still one of the most effective for coughs due to colds. Once tried, you'll swear by it.

Make a syrup with 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup water. No cooking needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Now put 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle, and fill up with your syrup. This makes a full pint of cough medicine, and gives you about four times as much for your money. It keeps perfectly and tastes fine.

And you'll say it's really excellent for quick action. You can feel it take hold swiftly. It loosens phlegm, soothes irritated membranes, helps clear the air passages. Thus it makes breathing easy and lets you get restful sleep.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well-known for its quick action on throat and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if not pleased in every way.

FOR EXTRA CONVENIENCE GET NEW READY-MIXED, READY-TO-USE PINEX!

"Hot Flashes" Stopped or strikingly relieved
In 63-80%* of cases in doctors' tests

• If you're miserable from the "hot flashes," and accompanying irritable, restless feelings of "change of life"—you may be suffering unnecessarily!

*For...in tests by doctors...Lydia Pinkham's Compound and Tablets brought relief from such functionally-caused suffering to 63% and 80% (respectively) of the women tested! Complete or striking relief!

Yes! Research has proved these medicines thoroughly modern in action... has shown you where to look for relief from those distressing, nervous, "out of sorts" feelings of mid-life "change"!

So...get Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—or new, improved Tablets, with added iron! (Wonderful, too, for the functional pains of menstrual periods.)

It sets through a woman's sympathetic nervous system to relieve distress of those awful "heat waves"!

It's Wonderful the Way Chewing-Gum Laxative Acts Chiefly to REMOVE WASTE —NOT GOOD FOOD

• Here's the secret millions of folks have discovered about FEEN-A-MINT, the modern chewing-gum laxative. Yes, here is why FEEN-A-MINT's action is so wonderfully different!

Doctors say that many other laxatives start their "flushing" action too soon... right in the stomach where food is being digested. Large doses of such laxatives upset digestion, flush away nourishing food you need for health and energy. You feel weak, worn out.

But gentle FEEN-A-MINT, taken as recommended, works chiefly in the lower bowel where it removes mostly waste, not good food! You avoid that typical weak, tired, run-down feeling. Use FEEN-A-MINT and feel your "peppy," energetic self—full of life! Get FEEN-A-MINT! No increase in price—still 25¢, 50¢ or only 10¢.

OPERATION UNITY

Europe Is Weary of Eternal War But Wary of Forming Alliances

By Farnham F. Dudgeon

(Editor's note: This is one of a series of articles prepared by the Editor of Western Newspaper Union while on a reporting trip through Europe and the Near East.)

Weary and wary.

That's a two-word diagnosis of Patient Europe's condition as the war fever mounts, recedes, and climbs again.

These countries are weary of war.

They are wary of alliances that might lead to another war.

Like Americans, these people would like to be left alone to "plow the fields". But unlike Americans, all they need do is look out across their fields, to see the massed forces of the Russian military machine aligned along the Iron Curtain.

In face of such a disheartening picture how has it been possible for the free world to effect any unity whatsoever in its political and military organizations? What force binds century-old nationalistic enemies together?

"Old time religion" is a pretty good answer.

Ike Is the Key

Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, key figure in both the political organization that is the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and its military arm, SHAPE, has been tramping up and down Europe for nine months now with the zeal and much of same spiritual vigor of some of our legendary American evangelists.

In fact, he told us in his European headquarters that he had, indeed, been tagged as "another Billy Sunday". He is willing, he added, to accept the designation because it is his firm conviction that the only way in which the free countries can survive is by creating a unity which is based on a spiritual appeal direct to the hearts of men.

To emphasize this point, General Eisenhower said:

"Military might is the product and not the sum of spiritual strength, economic health and military power. If any factor is reduced to zero, the product of the three becomes zero."

Spark of Hope

Eisenhower's "right-hand", Chief of Staff Gen. Albert M. Gruenther, echoed this same philosophy in his briefings. Lieut. Gen. Lauris Norstad, commander of Allied Air Forces Central Europe, told us at his Fontainebleau headquarters, that in the year he had been in Europe he had seen a kindling of "the spark of reviving hope". He believes that the reviving hope is coming from the inspiration Europeans are getting from the feeling of collective security created by the cooperative military and political efforts of the United States. Everywhere in the SHAPE command you find this spirit.

But, of course it takes more than inspiration to mass the forces of the free world. What is the nature of the organization we have in Europe today, and how does it function?

Treaty Is Foundation

Foundation stone of this structure is the North Atlantic Treaty, ratified by the United States Senate in July 1949. In this treaty, the signatory nations agree that an armed attack against one or more of them shall be considered an attack against all. And they pledge themselves to a continuance of self-help and mutual aid for the purpose of developing their individual and joint capacity to resist aggression.

This treaty sets up NATO, which stands for North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Member nations are Belgium, Canada, Denmark, France, Iceland, Italy, Luxemburg, Netherlands, Norway, Portugal, United Kingdom, and United States.

The announced object of the North Atlantic community of nations is to preserve peace through strength—by building up the powers of the free world to a point where no aggressor will be bold enough to strike.

To build up such a power, NATO, of course, had to develop a military force, and at the Brussels conference in December 1950, the members agreed on plans for building this force. The result is the greatest cooperative effort in history to create a joint army in peacetime for the prevention of war.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower was designated supreme commander for the integrated army, and other top positions were filled by officers of the different member nations, who work together as a team.

Headquarters are located near Paris, France, and the command is designated by the initials SHAPE: Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers Europe.

NATO Countries Cooperate

It was at this headquarters that we heard from General Eisenhower and his chief of staff, General Al Gruenther, just what their problems were with regard to the building up of this force, and a summary of some of the solutions which they were using to meet the complicated situations.

All of the countries belonging to NATO are expected to do everything possible to build their own defenses. America's contribution is made through the Mutual Defense Assistance Program—MDAP, which bolsters economical potential and actual military strength with funds, equipment and technical assistance.

These funds and this assistance are not confined to our NATO partners. Other free nations such as Yugoslavia, Turkey, Greece, and Italy share in MDAP programs.

The combined efforts are aimed at building for SHAPE, in the shortest possible time, forces of sufficient strength to deter aggression.

Our strategy then is to attempt to deter aggression with a show of military power. Russia seems to understand that kind of talk. But the big question remaining is whether or not we can build our forces fast enough to create the desired stalemate. A discussion of the problems connected with reaching this objective follows in a subsequent article in this series.

Pilot Lunches at Farm After Near-Miss Crash

SALEM, Ore.—An Air Force pilot, Lt. Clarence Burke, bailed out of his flaming F-51 and then accepted the calm invitation to lunch in a farm home that was almost destroyed by his crashing aircraft.

He parachuted to safety from 3,000 feet and then ran to the spot where the plane crashed. The only damage was done by a wing tip that punched a hole in the roof. The plane exploded in the yard. Mrs. James Jackson calmly invited the lieutenant to lunch—and he accepted.

GRASSROOTS

Local Government Is as Extravagant as National

By Wright A. Patterson

I WONDER if in your town, wherever it may be, you are experiencing as I am in my town, an ever-increasing tax burden, that is hard to account for. It is an increased burden that comes either in the form of an increased tax rate, an increased valuation on real estate, or a new form of taxes.

I recall the time, not so long ago, when the town gathered up the garbage from the town homes at no cost to the home owners. Then the city officials found they were overlooking a bet. Some other town was charging a special tax for such a service, and a tax of 50 cents a month for each home was added for that service to meet a need for increased revenue. The need has passed, but the tax is still being collected.

The town needed a new well from which to pump the town's water. It needed the money with which to drill such a well. A supposedly temporary water tax was levied for the purpose. The well was long since paid for, but that tax has not been repealed. A town sales tax was added to the state's sales tax, and it is still being collected, though the purpose for which it was levied has passed.

Some years, I feel the county and town assessors, in order to produce the demanded increase in revenue simply take a selected list and guess at how much increase each will stand without too much of a howl. This year I am sure I was a victim on both lists. With no reason, I was nicked for a material increase on both the county and town tax bills. Because of that, I am howling, but I realize it is voting, not howling that offers the real solution, and at the next county and town elections I, for one, will do the needed voting and register my protest about those tax increases.

We do a lot of complaining about the increased taxes of the federal government, but we do little or nothing about these close-to-home spenders. They are proportionately as bad as Washington. Can we not find those who will find ways to save, as well as ways to spend, or do we try to find them? The tax burden, national, state, county and town has gone far beyond the limit.

If the police would give tickets to the speeding drivers, the fines assessed would help to pay the cost of my home-town government as well as stop the speeding. If the fines collected could go to pay police salaries it might make a difference.

In my town and my county the total of new homes have added heavily to the total of tax valuation, but not enough to satisfy the spenders in both town and county governments.

A few weeks ago I was attending a noon-day luncheon of one of the town's service clubs. The speaker of the day was talking about "Youth Service." He illustrated with a brief story in which a mother of an adolescent son was lecturing him on the need for curbing his activities during his adolescent years. The boy replied by expressing a wish. "Mother," he said, "the one thing I wish for more than anything else, is to get through the adolescent years, and into the years of adultery."

Just at that moment there broke into the room a bevy of high school students, boys and girls of the senior class of the community high school. The girls, all too scantily clad, danced through the room, leaving the imprint of lip stick on the tops of several bald heads, and arrayed themselves on the stage, where they gave that man and boy audience an exhibition of tap dancing and high kicking, much to the edification of both men and boys.

It was an answer to that adolescent boy's wish. We are prone to bewail the delinquency of youth, and then we encourage some of it by such undraped display of the community's daughters as was given at that service club luncheon.

What is there in our high school curriculum that calls for such display? Certainly it is not the teaching of culture or feminine modesty. Whatever it is, it would be well to discontinue the study, and so discontinue the encouragement of at least one form of youth delinquency. Let us get back to grandmother's days and ways.

It would seem that old people never die, they just drift into and stay on the relief rolls. In 1931 they numbered 235,000. In 1951 the number had grown to 2,700,000.

THE FICTION CORNER

FELIX AND MARY

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

3-Minute Fiction

FELIX felt somewhat like the man who said there was no use running after a street car once you'd caught it. Mary Snell, after two years of courtship on Felix's part, had finally given in and said she would marry him. When Mary Snell said "Yes" or "No," she meant "Yes" or "No." Felix knew it, too. He knew the battle was won. Mary had said "Yes," and that settled it. Nothing could change her mind.

Mary wanted to set a date for the wedding, but Felix suggested waiting a while. The fact is, he wanted a chance to catch his breath. He wanted, as the story books put it, to have one last fling before becoming a benedict.

So Felix, without saying a word to any one, packed a bag and set off for Cedar Springs. The first Mary knew about it was a letter which she received from the Springs signed by Felix.

In part, the letter said: "I am combining a short business trip with some deep-sea fishing. Please do not worry about me, darling, as I will be home shortly, and we will make plans for the wedding."

Felix did not mention that on the deep-sea fishing trip he had met a party of young folks, including a very attractive red-headed girl named Nan.

In fact, Felix had such a nice time during the next few days that he decided to prolong his visit. Which he did, writing Mary Snell to this effect. Mary replied that she was glad he was having such a good time and getting rested. She, of course, was busy making plans for the wedding. She went on to give the town gossip, including the fact that Paul Strachey was spending a few days in town.

Felix did not mention that he had met an attractive red-head named Nan.

Who, wrote Felix in his next letter, was Paul Strachey?

He could tell by Mary's reply that she was surprised that he didn't know Paul Strachey.

Felix wrote he still didn't know who Paul Strachey was, but wasn't Paul surprised to know that Mary was engaged? He, Felix, incidentally, was spending another week at the Springs, on account, of course, of business.

Mary wrote that she hoped his business wouldn't keep him away too long. The taxpayers had voted to build a new school house, and Paul Strachey was still in town.

Felix replied that he had thought Paul Strachey was only staying a few days, and the weather was not very good at the Springs and he thought he would come home pretty soon.

Mary wrote that she hoped he would come home soon, and Paul Strachey was still in town because he had decided to extend his visit.

THE next day Felix returned to Dalevale.

By the time his train pulled in he had stopped thinking about Nan and was pondering on Strachey.

"Oh, Felix!" Mary Snell exclaimed when he phoned. "I'm so glad you've come. I had an appointment with Paul, but I'll cancel it, of course."

Felix immediately rushed over to Mary Snell's house and asked her how plans for the wedding were coming along. Mary hedged.

"Well," she said, "when did you want to get married. Felix?"

Black suspicion leaped into Felix's mind. He controlled himself with an effort. "I was thinking," he remarked casually, "that we might surprise everybody by doing what they don't expect. I mean, let's pop off tonight and get married."

"Tonight!" gasped Mary Snell. "You mean, you don't want to?" said Felix.

Mary considered. Her face brightened. "All right!" she said. "Let's!"

"Now," said Felix, after the ceremony and they were well on their way to the seashore for a honeymoon, "will you kindly explain about this guy Paul Strachey. Ha! If I hadn't come home I'll bet you would have eloped with him."

Mary giggled. "Oh, Felix, darling, that was a little joke of mine. There really never was a Paul Strachey. I merely wanted to make sure that folks in town weren't disillusioned about me. I mean, when Mary Snell says 'Yes,' she means 'Yes.' See?"

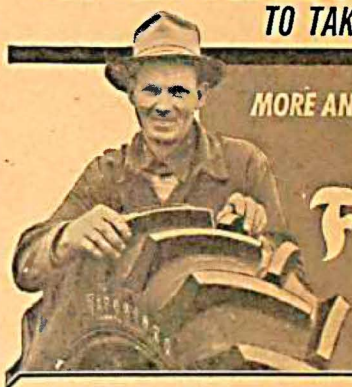
BUILDERS OF POWER EQUIPMENT FOR THE FAMILY FAR

This Illinois Farmer Says:

"I CAN ALWAYS DEPEND ON FIRESTONE OPEN CENTERS TO TAKE ME THROUGH"



MORE AND MORE OPEN CENTER BUYERS Choose Firestone CHAMPIONS

"I farm 240 acres of black loam, and I've found that there are times when I need tires with extra traction to get my work done. I choose Firestone Open Centers for my farm, because they have the traction that will always take me through. In my opinion they're the best tractor tires a farmer can use."

LAWRENCE O. LARSON
ORION, ILLINOIS

THERE'S only one sure way to tell the difference between tractor tires, and that is to put them to work. On any job, you can soon see that the Firestone Champion Open Center outpulls all other open center tires.

From the tractor seat you'll soon see why it outpulls all other tires. It's the only open center tire with Power-Arc traction bars, tapered and curved to take a full-traction bite deep into the ground. And it's the only tire that is designed to cup the soil for a stronger grip and give positive cleaning as well.

Of course if you are one of the million or more farmers who prefer a traction-center type of tire, be sure to get the only traction-center tire ever built . . . the Firestone Champion Traction Center.

Buy Firestone Champions for your tractor. You'll find them the best tires you can use.

No Games of Chance To Be Allowed By Episcopaleans

A ban upon sponsoring or engaging in lotteries or games of chance for financial support of the church was imposed Tuesday night on all parishes, missions and organizations of the Protestant Church in the Diocese of Los Angeles by Bishop Francis Bloy at the opening of the 57th annual convention of the diocese which includes eight Southern California counties.

The directive was part of a pre-convention address delivered by Bishop Bloy at St. Paul's Cathedral before more than 500 clergy and delegates and was issued at the request of the church executive council. The bishop also ruled out contributions from race track charity days or from "outside" lotteries.

"We hope there will be a faithful compliance with this directive," he said. "In this day of moral sag, the Church must not retreat from what she believes to be right."

In the prefacing remarks to his annual "stewardship" report, Bishop Bloy called upon the clergy to place more emphasis on the value of the family worshiping together as a unit as an antidote to stress and strain of the times, and moral deterioration resulting from a "day-to-day philosophy of living." He called upon all cultural forces to join with the church in sweeping spiritual renewal.

"That which may easily tip the scales toward either victory or defeat in the long pull of the years ahead is our answer to the question of how well we are able to handle the problem of an increasing impoverishment of spirit among us—the increasing lack of genuine commitment to that which is really basic and soverign in life," he said.

Rev. Charles D. Evans, pastor of Holy Cross Episcopal Mission is in attendance at the convention.

Business Women Hear Talk on High School

Mrs. Marian Batchelder spoke to the Business Women's League at their luncheon meeting last Thursday on the Grossmont Union High School District Plan. Lewis F. Smith, superintendent of Grossmont area High School District, assisted Mrs. Batchelder in answering questions asked by the audience.

Because of lack of janitor service at the Community Center, members of the Business Women's League will take care of having the Center cleaned so the Bloodmobile Unit can work there on January 26.

Mrs. Charlotte Nicholson, March of Dimes chairman for the League, reported a substantial collection to date and is still receiving donations.

The next meeting will be an evening meeting for dinner and a business meeting on February 7 at 7 p. m. The dinner will be served by the Congregational Ladies Aid at Friendship Hall. Reservations may be made with Dorothy Snodgrass at H 6-3489.

The annual luncheon meeting of the Girl Scout Council of San Diego County, Inc., will be held tomorrow (Friday) 12:00 to 2:15 p. m., at the Balboa Park Club in Balboa Park.

A group of Scouting enthusiasts from Monterey Heights will be attending. Rev. and Mrs. Le Roy Elster, Mmes. Guy Winton, Arthur Taylor, Millard F. McKinney, Elmer Carlson, Harvey Hodapp, D. M. Tidd, H. R. Evans, Ben Vistal, J. A. Cox, LLes Kerner, Ed Rush, C. L. Talbert, H. A. Westfall, Robert Davy, Raymond Johnson.

Lutherans Elect Church Officers

Following a bountiful potluck dinner, the annual business meeting of Lemon Grove Lutheran Church, Skyline and Alton, was held Sunday evening.

Reports were given by the pastor W. LeRoy Elster, and by committee chairmen.

Levi Selvig was named president of the congregation; Gerry Taylor, vice president; Lee Border, secretary; Stanley Mauseth, treasurer; George Elliot and Sam Hagan, trustees; D. F. Ellis, deacon.

Also P. N. Greene, head usher, Miss Grace Mauseth, member board of education; Gerald Menefey and Dr. Donald Johnson, auditing committee; Philip Humberstad, Ronald Grabanski, Grace Slagill, nominating committee; E. L. Scotvold delegate to general convention in Minneapolis, Nels Tieg, alternate.

Jamul Club Elects Officers

By MRS. H. I. HAGMAN

Ernest Brown was elected president Jamul-Las Flores Community Club, at the annual January meeting at the Jamul school house on Friday evening. Others elected were William Bennett, vice president; G. E. Gonard, secretary; M. C. Sexauer, treasurer; Mrs. H. I. Hagman, historian.

Copies of the club's By-Laws were provided by B. C. Whitacre and were distributed to all members present.

In spite of the stormy weather a large crowd was present. After the business meeting a social hour followed.

Refreshments were served by the hosts for the evening, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Gonard and B. C. Whitacre.

The next meeting will be held the third Friday in February.

Need Justice Be That Blind?

As an abstract ideal, and in the sense of being impartial, justice traditionally is pictured with eyes blindfolded.

That's a proper expression of the attitude of judge and jury before whom accusations are heard. It shouldn't be an accurate picture, however, of the accuser. An accusation is a serious thing: if the parties involved are important, it becomes news. The very charge always will be remembered and believed by many people, and defense against the charge is expensive and time-consuming. Justice may be blind, but accusations certainly shouldn't be made blindly.

Unfortunately, the U. S. Department of Justice seems to have acquired a habit of blind accusations. Just last week, the major rice millers and growers of California were acquitted of charges of anti-trust violations after less than an hour's deliberations by Federal jurors who were unimpressed with two months of Justice Department 'evidence." Recently, Federal Judge Harold Medina of New York, after hearing many long months of testimony of a similar nature against a number of the Nation's banking firms, forcefully questioned the propriety of the actions ever having been brought.

Many other industries and businesses, including California's major oil companies, currently are coping with the huge expense and great harassment of defending themselves against such highly questionable "anti-trust" accusations by the Justice Department. Many of these cases seem to have been brought largely as an expression of the discredited, cynical New Deal philosophy that persecuting business gains votes. Yet at the same time, the Administration's legal arm has exhibited a remarkable, blind unconcern with much of the growing evidence of serious corruption revealed by Congressional committees among agencies of the Government itself.

OBITUARY

MARCUS A. GRAHAM

Memorial services were held this (Thursday) afternoon at Greenwood Mortuary for Marcus A. Graham, 1691 Colfax drive, who passed away Monday in a hospital following a heart attack. He had been ill two weeks.

Masonic rites were conducted by La Mesa Lodge 407, F. and A. M., of which he was a member. Interment was in Greenwood Memorial Park.

Marcus A. Graham was born in Cardiff, Wales on June 24, 1904.

His family moved to Canada when he was a baby. There he grew to manhood and in 1929 was married to Miss Gertrude Callan.

They came to San Diego on their honeymoon and located there. One daughter, Shirleyanne was born to Mr. and Mrs. Graham.

They came to Lemon Grove seven years ago and purchased the home at 1691 Colfax where they have since resided.

Mr. Graham was a sheet metal worker with the California Neon Sign Co. and was a member of the Sheet Metal Workers Union.

MRS. JESSIE STEIGLADER

Mrs. Jessie Steiglader, aged 67, of Packwood, Iowa, passed away suddenly Saturday evening from a heart attack while visiting her nephew, Waldo Toomire, 1646 Cameron.

Mrs. Steiglader and her sisters, Mrs. Mollie Hanna and Mrs. Fern Curtis had arrived here the preceding Thursday to visit the Toomires.

Her body was shipped to Iowa for funeral services and interment.

The family wish to thank the neighbors and other friends for their many kindnesses.

LOSE TWIN DAUGHTER

Twin girls were born to Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Niefes, 2348 Barry, Friday evening at Paradise Valley Hospital. They were named Juanita Sue and Anita Lou. Little Juanita Sue passed away Sunday and was buried in Holy Cross Cemetery Tuesday forenoon.

California Taxes Can Be Cut

Shortly after announcing that State income tax return blanks were in the mail—and due back with the proper remittance by April 15 — State Controller Thomas H. Kuchel predicted that California's State Treasury will sport a tax surplus for the year of at least 128 million dollars.

A surplus of that huge amount obviously is an open invitation for every pressure group with a pet project to dip in the till. To the credit of four Assemblymen —Republicans Levering, Hollibaugh and Chapel and Democratic floor leader Beck—recommendations already have been made to cut State taxes at the March Budget Session of the Legislature. The State Chamber of Commerce, too, is advocating a return to a lower tax base.

Tax relief, whether in the form of a lowered sales tax, a reduced State income tax, or both, would be the most welcome gift Californians could receive from their Legislature. To the general public, certainly, it would be far more welcome than any give-away program. Faced with the highest State tax load in the Nation, in addition to the fantastic federal tax load, Californians undoubtedly will receive the news of a tax surplus with one overwhelming reaction: California taxes can be cut!

GARDEN SECCTION

The Garden Section of Lemon Grove Woman's Club will meet at the clubhouse at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. There will be discussions on perenials and roses. All Club members are welcome.

LITTLE LETTER

per hand. The life of the vehicle directly depends upon the length of excellent service performed by the horn, as a prosperous buyer of a car has gone into research on it horn both for loudness and durability. for it is required to go into action before starting the engine and keep going till all action has "stopped." The lumber salesman's lightness of foot and agility saved his welfare a couple of times to our notice, though it is doubtful he will live to a ripe old age and famous career. We saw a very well cared for cemetary. It was a low rambling sort of sandhill or knoll surrounded by "subahaw" which is alkali flat, to U. S. people of the Utah country, Salt Lake City, etc. Graves were selected at random it seemed and clearly marked by a slab head stone of sandy composition pryed up from the Persian Gulf bed by specialists thereof, and guaranteed to endure and survive those placing it, unless extra severe sandblasting storms reduced it to naught before hand. In that case the occupant of the grave would lose all claim upon the premises and another could take over. Due to this form of registration and filing system, we came away without an idea of how many generations of Joneses had been terminated upon the spot, and their glorious deeds lost.

As we were getting hungry, we started the long 40 miles back to this Dhahran Airport and air Force base, which is out of the Arab world so to speak. En-route home we saw ahead a sort of procession composed of two camels, four women and one man, which we found to be a man and his four wives going to Mecca. The man occupied the lead camel along with one woman and then the second camel carried some stuff of which we were not sure of its quality or quantity and after the three women came a poor dog. The reason one woman was riding was because she would in a short while bear her husband a child and he was keeping his fingers crossed that it would be a boy. But if she disgraced him by bearing a daughter she would go to the foot of the class; as far as the old man's affections were concerned.. The men it seems found out many years ago that women talk too much and actually did something about it. Ever since their noses and mouths have been covered and muffeled to keep them out of their old man's business. But I know they were females because I saw one of those in the background peeking under her veil. I stole a wink at her and she quickly covered up so completely I wondered how she could breathe.

Our informant who was sitting beside me groaned as though in pain and advised the driver we should proceed, which happened. I never knew for quite a while that the old man could have shot me and probably would have of he had keen eyesight. Few of these Arabs have good eyesight and a large percentage of them have one eye blinded for holy reasons, the bright hot sunlight having played heck with the other. They like Americans and allow us to wander around.

The tapline is pumping one million barrels of oil, 1,000 and some miles out of this land every day. A new field is ready to break as soon as a deal can be made with King Ibn Saud.

Will try to write more particulars about this land of heat, wind and sand, with gusher oil wells. —Sincerely, Larry Little.

New Cafeteria at Vista La Mesa School

Next Monday will see the opening of the new cafeteria at the Vista La Mesa School. The all-purpose room, which has already been ued for school assemblies and meetings, has the stove, refrigerator and other equipment installed.

Ben Schei, school principal, estimates that nearly 200 children will enjoy hot lunches in the new cafeteria. Mrs. Ruth Pfister, cafeteria supervisor, has appointed Mrs. Frieda Perkins and Mrs. Imajo Burgreen to cook and serve the initial meals.

Later in the year, cafeterias will be in operation at both the San Miguel School and the Monterey Heights School.

On Tuesday of this week the pupils of the Vista La Mesa School attended their first assembly program in the new auditorium.

The School Safety Patrol conducted the flag ceremony, followed by group singing of the Star Spangled Banner, led by student council members.

These members of the student council, who represent the entire student body, were introduced by Ben Schei, school principal. Melvin Stover, student body president, spoke briefly to the group on the purpose and functions of the council.

A film, "Safety Patrol" was shown, stressing the nine important safety procedudes which help eliminate accidents.

Following the safety program, Mr. Schei talked to the pupils about the origin and purpose of the March of Dimes. Then coin envelopes were distributed to the children. These will be filled and returned to the school. An announcement concerning the success of the campaign will be given next week.

Golden Avenue To See Free Movie

This weekend the following members of the School Safety Patrol will be guests of John van Gilse at his Grove Theatre at the Saturday matinee: John Wylie, Steve Walsh, John Mulkey, Robert Holbrook, Harold Gasner, Vernon Mayes, Robert Bunch, John O'Connor, Bob Kievit, Steve Taylor, Freddy Northcutt, and Harvey Walker and Billie Hobson, playground safeties.

Large Funds in March of Dimes Drive

Students from both the Golden Avenue and Lemon Grove Intermediate School are proud of their recent March of Dimes campaign. Rolland Purves, faculty advisor to the elementary student council, announced this week that a total of $290.54 had been collected.

In the 7-4, 7-5 group, Albert Van Zanten, homeroom teacher, stated that his classes raised $17.06 and $17.32, respectively.

New Teacher Employed At Lemon Grove School

This past week a new teacher was employed by the Lemon Grove School District to fill the vacancy caused by the promotion of Robert Sutton, fifth grade teacher at Golden Avenue School, to the principalship of the new San Miguel School.

Wiley F. Cornelius, the new teacher, will teach the fifth grade in Room 12 at School Lane and Lincoln when the San Miguel School is opened early next month. A native of Alabama, Cornelius spent eight years in the U. S. Marine Corps before attending San Diego State College where he recently graduated.

The new faculty member resides at 4739 Ingraham Street, San Diego. His wife is head teacher in the Child Care Services of the city. They have one daughter, four-year old Tempy Dell.

Cedric Stammerjohn, fifth grade teacher at Monterey Heights, will transer to the same grade at San Miguel when that school opens. This will then mean that all fifth grades in the district will be attending classes all day.

It is hoped that all information concerning the new school, such as the date of opening, bus schedules, and staff will be available soon.

Intermediate School New Elections for Student Councils

In two weeks the elementary school student council will hold elections for officers for the second semester. This will also include room representatives.

The seventh and eighth grades have scheduled both student body elections and homeroom elections for sometime in February. All elections results will be published. Rolland Purves and Iver Petersen are the sponsors for the two councils.

Students Study Italy

This week the students of 7-4 and 7-5 classes in Mr. Van Zanten's room enjoyed some first hand knowledge and information about Italy, which they are now studying in history and geography. Mrs. Michael Cartabruno and Mrs. Jack La Monica, 8190 Lincoln, visited the classes and described to the students some of the things they knew about or had seen in Italy and Sicily. Joanne Cartabruno is a student in the 7-4 class and the daughter of Mrs. M. Cartabruno.

From ingredients furnished by members of the classes, the students made macaroni, using special machines lent them for that purpose. Besides the first-hand knowledge of how the people of Italy prepare food, the pupils learned to apply knowledge gained in mathematics classes, for the preparation required the application of measurements and other arithmetic rules. Some scientific learning was also applied during the experiment.

Eighth Graders Begin Constitution

All four eighth grade classes have completed their study of the Western Movement in the United States, and they have begun a complete and detailed study of the Constitution of the United States.

This will include the preamble, the President's oath, the main body of the Constitution, and all amendments. It is required that each student pass an examination on the Constitution before being admitted to any high school.

Cub Scout Pack Graduates Four

Cub Scout Pack 8 held its semi yearly graduation last Friday night in Community Center.

Harry Dedrick, Cubmaster, Bud Taylor, assistant, and Hans Ahrenberg, committee chairman, conducted the ceremony and Thomas Brown, Scoutmaster of Boy Scout Troop, 163, accepted the graduates for Scouting.

Cubs who graduated from Den 1 were Charles Achilles and Lyle Graff; from Den 2, John Cornelius; Den 4, Glen Huff.

There is only one Cub Scout Pack in Lemon Grove.

Den 5, the newest den in Pack 8, won the pennant for having 100% attendance of parents.

Brownie Patrol Has Investiture

The Brownies of Patrol No. 552 will be invested at their troop meeting Thursday, January 31, at 2 p. m., at 7965 Nichols. Their leader, Mrs. J. R. Gregory, will invest the girls. She pins their Brownie Scout pins on the right hand side of their collars after they have made their Brownie promise.

The girls of the troop will dramatize the "Brownie Story," about the useful "little people" of old times in the North Country of England.

Invitations have been sent out to all their mothers and friends to attend their investiture.

Helix, Pointers In Loop Contest

Helix and Point Loma High basketball teams meet in an important City Prep League game tomorrow (Friday) night at the Grossmont gym. The Class B preliminary game is set for 7 p. m. with the featured varsity battle at 8:30.

Next Tuesday the Highlanders travel to Linda Vista where they meet the Komets at the Kearney High gym.

Helix's tall basketball crew is favored for victory in the latter game, but faces a severe test in the Point Loma skirmish. Center Noel Mickelson and Guard Jerry Hurst, both 6'6", are heavily counted on to control the rebounds in both games.

Last Friday night, with virtually the entire team laid up with flu, the Highlanders put up a stern battle but lost to La Jolla, at the Viking's gym. Jerry Kelleher and Chuck Lehmkuhl were the only regulars to play, and both of these players are under six-feet tall, thus not lending much help as to rebounds against the towering La Jollans.

VLM Cagers Cop Y Opener

The Vista La Mesa Hi-Y downed Lemon Grove's Hi-Y, 22-11, at the YMCA gym last Saturday night in the first round of the annual Y basketball tournament.

Paced by fighting forward Charlie Harter and 6'4" center Ronnie Hendee, with 10 and 8 points respectively, the Vistans built up an early lead which was never overtaken. Other scorers for Vista La Mesa were Ron Stull and George Schleif with two apiece.

Vista La Mesa is the defending champions of the tourney, while Lemon Grove, in its first year of Y action still has an outside chance due to the fact that the tourney is set up on a double-elimination basis.

Frosh-Sophs Meet

The Helix Freshmen-Sophomore basketball squad had its work cut out for it next week.

Monday Coach Quentin Keen's Highlanders square off against the La Jolla Vikings at Municipal gym in Balboa Park at 6:45 p. m. Then next Wednesday they begin the second round of Municipal Sophomore League play against the Kearny Komets at the Muni gym.

The Highland Lads and Lassies

By ROBERT TURNBULL

Helix High School had the March of Dimes this year at their School from January 16 through January 23. Each day a representative from a room from the Student Council passed around a miniature Iron Lung to be filled with money for the Polio Foundation.

Vainley trying to break away from Grossmont's traditions, Helix is thinking of going to the snow instead of the beach as the Annual Senior Ditch Day rolls nearer. Helix wants to change the date and place in order to be different from Grossmont. So far the idea is O. K.

Harold Strawn, art instructor at Helix, was awarded 1st prize for his ceramics exhibit at the Los Angeles County Fair.

Our own Tom Warburton, vice principal at Helix High, is co-chairman of the Kiwanis Club in leading the March of Dimes campaign in Lemon Grove. He is doing a bang-up job.

Drifting

By BOB GALLANDT

Now that the rains have let up a little, the general sentiment of the Drifters has been that we should have bought a houseboat to navigate, instead of attempting to drive a car. All of which is our cue to quote the National Safety Council's saying, "Slow down well in advance of intersections and curves. Allow plenty of time and space for every stop."

Much inactivity has been the lot of the Drifters the past week. Inclement weather which seems to be only good for sleeping, has practically halted activity on the club's car, the frame of which was last seen sinking slowly into Norman Terry's back yard. The engine is reposing, rather gawkishly, in the middle of Jim Thomas' garage.

Now seems to be a good time to mention to all young men over 16 years of age, that there are yet a few memberships available in the Drifters to fill the quota of 50. Don Schmidt, president has issued a call to interested fellows to attend the weekly meeting Wednesday evening at 7:30 p. m. at the VFW Hall.

Norman Terry, vice president, hastens to add that this is definately not a hot-rod club, and that the main entrance requirments are only the ability and willingness to abide by the rules of the California Vehicle Code and the rules of the club.

Although there are about 30 driving clubs in the San Diego area, very few are actually engaged in hot-rodding.

Most clubs are formed for companionship, to promote safe driving, and for co-operation with other clubs. Numerous lone wolves, who follow no rules and belong to no organization, are usually the ones who make the most noise, squeal tires, and, in general, give the organized clubs a bad name.

This is the season for taxes, bills, and all sorts of other worries, so keep your car in shape and your mind in gear while you are driving, or they will fit you with a wooden overcoat.

CAROLERS CONCERT

tour of duty with the famous Navy show, "Drop the Hook."

Tenor Leo Bernsche was born in Northhampton, Mass., and is a graduate of Dartmouth College. As a member of the Amato Opera Theatre in New York City, he was heard in a number of roles. His Navy service also included duty with "Drop the Hook."

Bass-baritone Eric Carlson was born in Woodstock, N. Y., and is a graduate of Phillips Exeter Academy. He was one of the "Motet Singers," did summer stock and sang in the American League for Opera. From 1941 to 1945 he was in the Army overseas. After the war he was a member of the "Finian's Rainbow" company.

Tenor Rurrell Hammar is the newest member of the Carolers. He has been active with the Don Craig Glee Club in recording and television, and has sung with the Gustave Haenschen Orchestra and Chorus as tenor soloist. He was graduated from Hamlin University in St. Paul, Minn.

Program selections feature all five members of the group, as a quintet, soloists, duets, trios and quartette arrangements. Samplings from the programmed numbers includes the Schumann "Evening Star;" three "Liebeslieder" Waltzes by Brahms; excerpts from "Die Fledermaus" by Strauss; a group of Negro Spirituals, arranged by Waring; and concluding with selections from Jerome Kern's "Show Boat."

After the concert, members of Grossmont PTA are inviting concert-goers to stop in at the cafeteria building for coffee, tea or hot chocolate and doughnuts, with the small charge going to benefit the organization's welfare fund. Started at the Spivakovsky concert, the opportunity for a social hour proved so popular it is to be continued, according to Mrs. Edward S. Strong, PTA president.

You Will Like the Girl Scout Cookies

The annual Scout Cookie Sale will start with orders being taken Saturday.

Some people may wonder why it is necessary to have a cookie sale. Community Chest allocations do not meet the full budgetary needs of Girl Scout Council operations and camping activities. To provide a well-balanced program, this deficit must be made up by other means, such as the annual cookie sale. The sale is in accord with the Community Chest agreements.

The original delicious vanilla cookies are baked by a California bakery. The price will be three boxes for a dollar or 35c a box, with approximately 48 cookies to a box.

The Brownie's and Intermediates will have recipes of all sorts of dishes that can be made with these delicious cookies.

What points the WAY?
There are a good many fine insurance agencies—with experience and knowledge and services which recommend them highly to the public. How can you tell which ones come under this category? What points the way? There are a number of things. First of all, good agents represent good insurance companies. Next, the good agent is always anxious to render services which are unusual but essential to the insurance welfare of his policyholders. He knows how to build a good insurance program. He is not after just the expiration dates on your present policies. He is willing to advise first, before you buy.

Philadelphia: Police Tactics In the City of Brotherly Love

In Philadelphia, one of the nation's largest, most efficiently organized numbers rackets flourishes—operating through "a politico-gambler-police tie-up that makes it impossible for any intruder to edge his way in from the outside."

A paralyzing attitude of apathy seems to hang like an ether mist over the police department. One judge who agitated—finally with some success—for stiffer action against the numbers racketeers, told the Senate Crime Committee frankly that the "big fry" just didn't seem to get caught.

Evidence indicated that Philadelphia is organized by the numbers operators into various geographical territories, each with its own "numbers bank." Public Safety Director Samuel H. Rosenberg told us he understood that was the way the racketeers operated. We questioned Rosenberg:

Q: Are you aware that it is common knowledge, in connection with gambling operation, that payments are made to police officers?

Rosenberg: I have never been able to prove that. We have asked for proof, and have never been able to obtain it!

One of his worst handicaps in administering the police department, the safety director stated, was the Philadelphia system of civil service regulations, "originally intended to be on the merit basis, but which have put us in an absolute straitjacket."

I was pleased, some months after our Philadelphia hearings, to hear that a long-desired city charter reform had been voted by the citizens. The victory was achieved despite the opposition of Mayor Bernard Samuels' administration, and, among other things, will set up machinery to take civil service out of politics.

The principal racket character we questioned was Harry Stromberg, alias Nig Rosen, a stocky, swarthy, balding man with intensely dark eyes and an annoying habit of repeating almost every question before giving an answer.

At the age of nine, the Russian-born Stromberg was sent to a protectory as a juvenile delinquent. He has been arrested numerous times since, served time for attempted burglary, and admitted to us he had been a bootlegger and, more recently, a numbers operator and book-maker. It was evident from his grudging testimony that he had been the rackets king-pin in the city of Brotherly Love. Now, Stromberg argued, he was engaged in the dress manufacturing business in New York city. He insisted he had no connection with the rackets.

The nemesis of Stromberg in Philadelphia was the assistant superintendent of police in charge of detectives, white-haired George Richardson, who heaped vilification upon him.

Richardson asserted that Stromberg had run his part of the Philadelphia numbers racket by remote control from New York, after leaving Philadelphia around 1914 and still had a hand in Philadelphia rackets. Eight months earlier, Richardson had written the director of the Greater Miami Crime Commission: "Rosen has connections with the underworld throughout the entire nation. So far as the local mob is concerned, he is their undisputed leader and is commonly known as 'The Mahoff.' Among his followers his word is law."

Since testifying before us, Chief Richardson has been suspended from duty on a charge that he had forced the "confession" of a man who had been sent to the penitentiary for homicide. After 12 years in prison, the victim was found to be innocent and released.

Judge Joseph Sloane of the common pleas court told us that many of his colleagues on the bench were content merely to impose small fines and no jail sentences on persons pleading guilty of gambling offenses. In five years prior to 1950, we learned, out of thousands of gambling arrests, only two defendants actually had gone to jail. However, as our report summed up: "There has been a change in attitude on the part of judges since the committee held its hearings in Philadelphia. More and more jail sentences are beginning to be imposed and it is a fact reported by municipal authorities, that the numbers game is no longer as easy to carry on in Philadelphia . . ."

The committee took note of a local "cause celebre," which we regarded as "indicative of the tie-up of gamblers, politicians and police." Michael McDonald, a Philadelphia policeman, had arrested a numbers writer named Jack Rogers. While Rogers was being booked, McDonald said, one Mike Caserta, "who had been named by Rogers as his backer," came into the station house.

McDonald said that Caserta offered him $200 if he only would modify the charge against Rogers to disorderly conduct. McDonald testified: "I refused the offer. As he turned away he said, 'I will frame you good.' When he said that, I grabbed hold of him and placed him under arrest."

At that point, McDonald continued, Police Captain Vincent Elwell appeared and "wanted to know who locked up 'Mike.' He addressed him as 'Mike.' "

That night, McDonald said, he was called in to Captain Elwell's office and was ordered to alter his report on Caserta. McDonald claimed he refused and that Captain Elwell then told him, "Stick around. I want to talk to you." In about 10 minutes, Captain Elwell walked to the door and asked, "Who is hollering out there?" A sergeant promptly stepped in and dutifully announced: "A man is complaining about being short some money out here."

Thereupon, on Captain Elwell's orders, the numbers writer, Rogers, was brought in and complained he was short about $123. McDonald was accused of turning in less money than he had taken from Rogers at the station house when he brought him in, and Captain Elwell immediately suspended him.

"McDonald gave a picture of the operations of the politico-gambler-police triumvirate," the report continued. He named a policeman who, he said, was known as the "collector" for Captain Elwell—he would come into the station house with his pockets "bulging," McDonald testified—and a ward boss who frequently conferred with Captain Elwell at the station house. McDonald estimated that protection money paid to police alone, exclusive of "payment to the higher-ups," totaled at least $152,000 a month.

The committee inquired, too, into the underworld penetration of a Philadelphia steel fabricating concern, which we concluded had been accomplished through "political influence." A numbers racketeer named Louis Crusco had bought his way into the Strunk Steel Co. by virtue, the committee inferred, "of his close association with the son of Philadelphia's mayor." Crusco was an old friend and neighbor of Richard Russell Samuel Sr., son of Mayor Samuel. The numbers man bought his interest in the company under extraordinary circumstances: he carried the purchase price, $34,000, in cash in a satchel to a stockholders' meeting. Richard Samuel Jr., 19-year-old grandson of the mayor, accompanied Crusco and, according to the testimony of one stockholder who was selling out, "apparently was the mouthpiece for Mr. Crusco."

"Until Crusco came along," our report to the Senate summed up, "the company had never been able to get any business from the city of Philadelphia but, while Crusco was negotiating his stock purchase in the company, it received a contract from the Philadelphia Transit Co., a local public utility, on which there were no competitive bids. The president of the company testified that this deal had been suggested to him by the mayor's grandson, who, coincidentally, was placed on the company's payroll as part of the Crusco stock deal."

What Happens to Football in 1952?

By GRANTLAND RICE

NOW that all of the bowls have been completed and filled for the year, it seems about time to find out just where football for 1952 is headed.

What about the bowl situation? What about TV? What about scouting and overproselyting? What about spring practice? What about the problem of athletic scholarships in some cases numbering 80 to 150? What about classroom work for football players?

There is no particular rush in overemphasizing the deflation program. We certainly have enough agencies at work, including college presidents and the NCAA.

The college presidents will and should have the final, decisive word, no matter what the NCAA might decide. The NCAA is split into too many groups, many of them far apart in their football planning.

Grantland Rice

The situation is so badly tangled that little good can be accomplished from any hurried actions which can't be enforced or that would partially wreck the game.

There are sure to be wide divergencies on bowl games, spring practice and athletic scholarships. The Southeast and the Southwest, two powerful conferences, may not stick with many of the others.

I had a long talk with Kenneth Tug Wilson, Big Ten Commissioner. The point under discussion was the relationship of the NCAA and the college presidents.

Tug thought the NCAA would follow the recommendations made by college presidents.

The Tower of Babel

We have a feeling that the NCAA and the college presidents will complete a tower of Babel. Recently a president of the Southeastern Conference, who is also a college president, came out savagely against all bowl games. A few days later most of the other Southeastern presidents voted overwhelmingly for bowl games, more and bigger bowl games.

Now if there is a split in one Conference you can imagine what will happen when rival sections tangle up. You may recall what happened to the Sanity Code when it came to NCAA attention. It was completely wrecked, thrown out of the window.

The big crash will come when athletic scholarships come up for a vote. Here the Ivy League and other Conferences are a thousand miles apart. Others are not so far apart, but at least they lack the direct honesty of the Southeast and Southwest who want from 100 to 150 athletic scholarships, where football players are often a group apart from the rest of the college.

I have seen the silver spoon welded to the pewter handle, but I am still waiting to see the NCAA delegates from seven Conferences get blended.

That will be something to see. And even then I won't believe it. We are quite likely to have several breeds of football players, forcing rankings under different playing or paying conditions. There may be the strictly amateur ranking, the sub-amateur ranking, the semi-pro and the boldly declared pro.

What a pretty dish that will be to set before the football fan! Bowls Ahoy!

Bowls Ahoy!

How many bowls will be operating under Western and Southern skies a year from now—on January 1, 1953?

No one knows, but it is my guess that most of the leading pageants of punt and pass will be doing business at the same old stands.

It is also my guess that bowls and spring practice are not the major evils that affect football. I still think the major evil is this matter of high-priced scouts trailing young stars all over the map and lugging them in with a fervor even the pros can't match. Also while scholarships are a fine and necessary thing, there should be no outright athletic scholarships, or, at least, not so many thousands of them.

Season's Too Long

Football's season runs much too long. Teams are assembled as early as July. They play an All-Star game in August. And yet they will still be playing around the middle of January with another all-star contest. That's too much.

From July to late January is quite a stretch of time. Even the colleges, or many of them, are expanding things quite a bit. Georgia Tech played 11 games this last fall, in addition to a Bowl game.

Certainly nine games are enough for any college player to face, unless they are all pushovers or set-ups, another form of amusement some college coaches love.

There should acually be no breathers, one who is outclassed, on any college schedule. Not every game should be a championship test but these 81 to 0 or 76 to 7 routs are all out of order.

THE CHARMING DECEIVER

Detective Disguises To Catch Crook

CLEVELAND—An ex-convict, attempting to extort $5,000 from the parents of a 10-year-old girl who has been missing since August, was nabbed by a detective who posed as a woman to trap him.

Frank Davis, 48, admitted to police that he phoned and wrote to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Potts, telling them their missing daughter, Beverly, would die unless they paid the money.

Then Potts informed police and Davis was captured when Detective Bernard Conley, masquerading as Mrs. Potts, handed him a paper sack, supposedly containing the $5,000.

Davis, who has served time for automobile theft, was turned over to the FBI and Postal authorities for prosecution.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Spiced Pastry Makes Delicious Tarts
(See Recipes Below)

WHETHER YOU MAKE individual tarts or a single pie to serve several people, you know that pastry makes a special kind of dessert, bound to be pleasing to anyone.

The crust should be meltingly tender, of course, and it might be lightly spiced for added appeal. The filling, whether a custard type, fruit or berries, delicious to taste, smooth as satin on the tongue.

For a heavier dinner, try one of the tart fillings like lemon to give the meal proper contrast. For lighter dinners, the rich custard fillings fill the dessert role perfectly.

At your next luncheon or dinner party, something new in the way of pastry would be spiced pastry for the tart shells and a lemon filling, swirled with peaks of meringue.

Lemon Meringue Tartlets
(Makes 4)

Spiced Pastry:
2 cups sifted, all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon baking soda
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon ginger
¼ teaspoon cloves
⅔ cup shortening
1 tablespoon vinegar
3 tablespoons orange or citrus juice

Sift dry ingredients together. Cut in shortening. Mix together vinegar and fruit juice and add to dry ingredients. Mix lightly with a fork. Roll dough ⅛ inch thick into four rounds. Line 5-inch pie pans, making a fluted edge. Prick shells well. Bake in hot oven (425°F.) 10 to 12 minutes.

Lemon Filling and Meringue:
1 package lemon pudding
3 egg whites
Pinch of salt
Pinch of cream of tartar
½ cup sugar

Prepare 1 package lemon pudding as directed on box. Cool slightly and pour into baked pastry shells. Beat 3 egg whites until foamy. Add pinch of salt and pinch of cream of tartar. Beat until stiff but not dry. Gradually beat in ½ cup sugar. Continue beating until stiff and glassy. Spread over filling. Bake in hot oven (425°F.) 5 to 7 minutes or until lightly browned.

Rich Lemon Tarts
(Makes 5)

5 baked tart shells, 2 inches in diameter
½ cup butter
1 cup sugar
2 whole eggs
2 egg yolks
¼ cup lemon juice

Melt butter. Stir in sugar. Beat whole eggs and yolks well and add to butter-sugar mixture. Stir in lemon juice. Stirring constantly, cook until thickened. Let cool. Spoon into tart shells. If desired, garnish with whipped cream or lightly browned swirls of meringue.

Peaches and Cream Pie
(Serves 6-8)

1 baked 8-inch pie shell
2 packages frozen peaches
1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin
2 tablespoons cold water
1 tablespoon lemon juice
¼ cup sugar
½ cup heavy cream, whipped

Place peaches, in packages, in warm water to thaw (about 45 minutes). Soften gelatin in cold water. Drain peaches and measure 1 cup juice. Heat peach and lemon juice to boiling. Add softened gelatin and stir until dissolved. Add sugar. Force peaches through colander. Add to juices. Place in refrigerator to chill. When partially set, fold in whipped cream. Pour into baked pie shell. Place in refrigerator until set (about 2 hours). If desired, fluted edge with whipped cream.

Apple Crumb Pie
(Serves 6)

6 tart apples, peeled and sliced
2 tablespoons butter, melted
¾ cup sugar
½ teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon salt
1 unbaked 9-inch pie shell
½ cup brown sugar firmly packed
¼ cup all-purpose flour
⅓ cup butter or substitute
½ cup chopped nuts

Mix apples with butter, then with sugar mixed with nutmeg, cinnamon and salt. Arrange evenly in pie shell. Combine brown sugar and flour; cut in butter and add nuts. Sprinkle this mixture evenly over the apples. Bake in a moderate (350°F.) oven for 50 minutes or until apples are tender. Serve warm or cold with the following custard sauce: beat 2 eggs slightly, then add ¼ cup sugar and ¼ teaspoon salt; mix well. Add 1 pint of scalded milk gradually while stirring constantly. Cook over low heat or in double boiler until mixture coats spoon. Cool and blend in ½ teaspoon vanilla or a few grains of nutmeg.

Cottage Cheese Apricot Pie
(Makes 1 9-inch pie)

1 unbaked 9-inch pie shell
1 cup dried apricots
2 eggs, beaten
¾ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1½ cups creamed cottage cheese (12 ounces)
½ cup milk
½ cup cream
Cinnamon

The pie crust should be rolled thin, less than ⅛-inch thick. Trim and flute. Wash apricots well and dry thoroughly. Cut apricots in small pieces and spread over bottom of crust. Combine eggs, sugar and salt; beat until well blended and foamy. Add cottage cheese, milk and cream and stir until well mixed. Pour this mixture over apricots and sprinkle the top with cinnamon. Bake in a hot (450°F.) oven for 10 minutes, then turn oven down to slow (325°F.) for an hour.

LYNN SAYS:
Add Flavor Contrast To Your Menus Daily

Spanish rice makes an excellent cold weather supper dish, but it can be enhanced with the addition of bulk pork sausage blended with the rice. Serve spinach as a vegetable, apple-raisin salad and fruit and cookies.

What does one serve with chili for a well-balanced meal? Vienna bread, warmed and buttered is tasty. Follow with a fruit salad and ice cream for dessert.

Spareribs give a hearty dinner and are properly contrasted with mashed potatoes, lima beans, crisp relishes and a tart lemon pie.

Family like meat balls? Team them with mashed or boiled potatoes, serve stewed tomatoes, apple-celery salad and cherry pie.

Nothing's easier to prepare than macaroni in which you've folded some chunks of frankfurter. Add to this main dish buttered beets, apple-banana-nut salad and some vanilla pudding and the meal's complete.

Over 200 Charter Members Received by Trinity Presbyterian

Sunday, January 20, will long be a memorable day for Rev. John R. Chandler and the congregation of Trinity Presbyterian Church.

Two hundred seventy five charter members and friends were in attendance to witness the institution of the church by the reception of over 200 charter members, the presentation of the charter, the election and ordination of the elders, election of trustees; and the unanimous call of the congregation to the Rev. Chandler to be the pastor of the newest Presbyterian Church in Los Angeles Presptery.

One hundred children were cared for in the nursery rooms making a total attendance of 375.

The Rev. James A. Baird, director of Missions of Los Angeles Presbytery, was the presiding officer.

Representing Presbytery as a Board of Elders were R. G. Wig, Pasadena; Rev. R. Murray Jones, Inglewood; J. M. Rusk, Los Angeles; Arthur L. Walton, Hollywood; Tracy Abell, Los Angeles; Rev. C. M. Buley, Burbank; Rev. Robt. Shattuck, Long Beach; Donald Cunliff, Hollywood.

Elected, ordained and installed as elders of Trinity Church were Mac Lewallen, Paul Robsahl, Don McKillop, Eddie Jensen, Don Irwin, Elmer Becker, Vern Brenn, Ed Strong, Marion Hargraves, Don Klepper, Don Robinson, Bill Lovewell.

Elected and installed as trustees were Lloyd Plummer, Don McKillop, Eddie Jensen, Mac Lewallen and J. O. Eaton.

Services were held in the former La Mesa County Clubhouse at 3902 Kenwood drive recently purchased and rapidly being transformed into a spacious comfortable and beautiful house of worship.

The building, erected in a hollow square around a spacious patio, has an elegant setting in four acres of nicely landscaped grounds atop a hill rising considerably above the surrounding areas. The majestic trees, nicely leveled grounds winding drives and the scenic panorama of hills, lovely country homes and snow capped mountains in the distance makes it one of the most beautiful spots in the valley.

Living quarters have been refinished and furnished in a wing of the church for Mr. and Mrs. Carl Zook who will be the caretakers.

Trinity Presbyterian Church is the first church recorded in the history of the church in America to own its home before receiving a charter. Its growth as a mission in a little over three months time has won the admiration of the churches of other denomunations in this area for the Rev. and Mrs. John Chandler, the steering committee and others responsible for the organization.

Trinity Presbyterian Church was alloted the area of Lemon Grove, Spring Valley and South La Mesa by the National Council of Churches.

To all who do not have a church home, Trinity Presbyterian Church extends a welcome to worship God and to enjoy the fellowship of its congregation.

8258 Allison Ave., at Palm St
9:30 a.m.—Sunday School
God is Truth which destroys evil, guides in right paths, frees, governs and heals, points out the Lesson-Sermon on "Truth" in all Christian Science churches Sunday.
The Golden Text from John (8:31,32) reads, "Then said Jesus to those Jews which believed on him, If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed; and ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free."
It is related in a Bible passage from Matthew (15:30,31), "Great multitudes came unto him, having with them those that were lame, blind, dumb, maimed, and many others, and cast them down at Jesus' feet; and he healed them:—and the glorified the God of Israel."

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA IN AND FOR THE COUNTY OF SAN DIEGO
No. 169087
GAIL M. SHEETS,
AND
THELMA T. SHEETS,
Plaintiffs.
vs.
NETTIE J. FERGUSON, et al
Defendents.
SUMMONS
Action brought in the Superior Court of the State of California in and for the County of San Diego, and the Complaint filed in said County of San Diego, in the office of the Clerk of the Superior Court.
THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA SEND GREETING: To
NETTIE J. FERGUSON, and THE HEIRS AND DEVISEES OF NETTIE J. FERGUSON, and WESTERN LOAN AND BUILDING COMPANY, a Utah Corporation (LELAND H. WALKER, Statutory Agent), and A. BUCHANAN, as Special Administratrix of the estate of GEORGE J. BACH, Deceased, and ALSO ALL OTHER PERSONS UNKNOWN, claiming any right, title, estate, lien or interest in the real property described in the Complaint, adverse to Plaintiffs' ownership or any cloud upon Plaintiffs' title thereto, and DOE ONE, DOE TWO, DOE THREE, DOE FOUR, DOE FIVE, Defendants.
YOU ARE HEREBY DIRECTED to appear and answer to a Complaint in an action entitled as above, brought against you in the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of San Diego, within ten days after the service on you of this summons — if served within this County; or within thirty days if served elsewhere.
The object of this action is to require the above named defendants to set forth the nature of their claim or claims to the real property hereinafter described, if any they have, and that such claim or claims be adjudged to be of no effect and void; and that plaintiffs title to the same be quieted against them and each of them, under the provisions of Chapter X, Part 6, Division 1, Revenue Taxation Code of the State of California, which said real property is described as follows, to wit:
Lots 80, 81, and 91 of Empire Addition to Encanto Heights in the City of San Diego, County of San Diego, State of California, according to Map thereof Number 1254, filed in the office of the County Recorder of said County April 26, 1910.
And you are hereby notified that unless you appear and answer as above required, the said Plaintiffs will take judgment for any money or damages demanded in the Complaint, as arising upon contract or otherwise and will apply to the Court for any other relief demanded in the Complaint.
SEAL OF SUPERIOR COURT
Given under my hand and seal of the Superior Court of the County of San Diego, State of California, this 9th day of November, 1951.
T. H. SEXTON, Clerk.
By L. M. CRANE, Deputy.
LUTHER N. HUSSEY,
Attorney for Plaintiffs
APPEARANCE: A defendant appears in an action when he answers, demurs, or gives the plaintiff written notice of appearance. The appearance must be in writing, accompanied by the necessary fee and filed with the Clerk.
